Miss Langley, as an antiopiumist, made a stipulation that Tong was $4.00, not to indulge in the narcotic. On Sunday, however, she discovered that the agreement was not being kept, and at once dismissed Tong Kwong. On Monday afternoon he reappeared and demanded his wages, and on Miss Langley refusing he pushed her violently against the door, picked up a piece of wood and threatened to strike her. An amah came to the resoue, and the aggressive Tong was expelled. The amah and Miss Daisy Kirk corroborated, and after hearing a witness for the defence, Mr Wodehouse imposed a fine of $5 with the alternative of fourteen days' imprisonment. Last night there was a large attendance of members in the Rooms of the Institution of Engineers and Shipbuilders to discuss a paper on 'The Arrangement of Cylinders and Cranks in Triple-Expansion Marine Engines' by Mr W. G. Winterburn. The paper was read at a former meeting, and circulated amongst the members. Its facts were based upon data obtained from local steamers, but the paper was so eminently technical as to be incomprehensible to any ontside the engineering profession and to be incapable of summarised reproduction. Mr. R. FREIGHTS ON SEA. - Since the Indian Tes Association, a couple of months ago, decided to break down the combination of certain home steamer companies, known as the Conference Lines, by refusing to ship by their vessels unless their shipping charges, etc., were very considerably modified, very fair support has been given by the tea shippers to the independent lines of steamers which the strike had attracted to Calcutta, and the Association announce that tea shippers have now secured a fair prospect of moderate rates for some time to come. As the defendants 'not guilty,' a verdict with it is, the Conference lines have been forced to come down to the rates of the outside steamers, in order to secure any freight at

My friend encloses a portion of a new manifesto issued by Chou Han, every sentence of which bears the stamp of his peculiar genius. He was reported to the Emperor by the Viceroy, on the authority of Commissioner Yun, to be mad, and to have left his home some six or seven years We all knew that there was not a word of truth in all this. Getley expedition into Hunau with the view of opening the province to foreign trade, and the suspicion on the part of the Chou Han party that the appointment of the new Governor, Wa Ta-cheng, has been made with the view of facilitating the schome. It was with the object of resisting this supposed attempt at opening Hupan that Chou Han issued his placards on the night of the 12th, and posted up his new manifesto in the Temple of the Queen of Heaven on the following day. Perhaps your readers would not object to get some insight into the contents of this remarkable document.

In the first article of the manifesto. Chou Han states that the new Governor and the barbarian devils are handed together in their traitorous schemes. He speaks of Wu as being of old a slave of the devits.
